What is fair trade?

Fair trade is a simple yet incredibly important idea – it is all about giving the people who produce the items you buy a fair price for their work.

This may seem obvious, but many people in poorer countries have to sell their goods at prices so low that they can not make a decent living.

Often, only a tiny bit of the money you pay for something goes to the person who made it! This happens a lot when we import things from poorer countries.

Did you know that nearly half the world's people live on less than $2 a day?

Read, 'Pablo the Super Banana!' Then next time you're at the store, look for fair trade items.

You could also visit the fair trade store, 'The Work of Our Hands' in Pella. Visit the store and discover all the handmade items from around the world.
